

The Southeastern tip of Novus is a frozen wasteland fraught with dangers of all kind, particularly from the residents of the city of Danesk. Vinn has spent the past decade evading capture for prior crimes, while developing a powerful ring of criminal activity in the City of Darkness.

Lately the trade routes are bringing fewer people to the city, impacting his profitability. Vinn decided to take part in the offer for riches and rewards being presented to those who can vanquish the terrible creatures plaguing the world.

He prefers to travel alone, picking his battles carefully and finding ways to illegally earn coins and items to support his quest.