

Monsigneus, Volcanic Dragon

When the rift opened up on the world of Novus, creating the devastating Maelstrom that has permanently changed the world, it also brought with it powerful creatures from other worlds.

Monsigneus is a Volcanic Dragon, the only one of his kind, from a planet of dragons elsewhere in the multiverse. The magic of the Maelstrom transported him from his world over to Novus involuntarily, and he has been trapped here ever since.

Monsigneus initially spent his days torching any farms, villages, and towns he came across, dining on the small and powerless insects that ran about the land. The few people that managed to escape his wrath told tales of his incredible speed, razorsharp claws and teeth, lashing serpentine tail, and stone melting fire breath.

If Monsigneus is not stopped he will continue to ravage the western lands, and most likely expand his attention to the rest of Novus.

LEGENDS OF
NOVUS